

14-Day Closet Decluttering & Organizing Challenge

How to easily clean out your closet?

simple tips

Plan your daily decluttering schedule: Something about 20 minutes a day should be enough to organize each category.

Prepare some boxes: They will be helpful for things you decide to donate, sell, fix or throw away. Also, I would highly suggest preparing a separate space in your wardrobe (or box that you can move to the basement) to store some clothes you do not wear but still like. If you still do not use them after 2-3 months, you can safely get rid of them.

Before you decide to eliminate something from your closet, ask yourself:

- Do I love it?
- Is it damaged?
- Does it fit me and my style?
- Is it a versatile item?
- Have I worn it in the last six months?
- Do I own a similar piece that I love more?
- Does it fit the space in my wardrobe?
- Is it worth it to get this item tailored?

Be honest with yourself and take notes: Do not look for more excuses when getting rid of things that are too small, too big, or do not fit your current lifestyle. Also, zero compromises for damaged items and shoes that hurt your feet! Same with clothes you have not been wearing for the last year or more, things that do not belong to you (give them back), sentimental items, or anything that has a tag and still has not been worn. And please, take notes! :) They will give you a glimpse of what you like to wear most often, in which colors you feel best, and what materials you should pay attention to when shopping for clothes next time.

Get ready to start the new season organized!
